NJ gov. anti-gay marriage

Don't expect New Jersey to legalize same-sex marriage anytime soon. New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie said yesterday he would refuse to sign a bill for gay marriage, should one come before him. "I believe marriage should be between one man and one woman," Christie said. METRO/CB

Arrest in Moustache taggings

NEW YORK. After two months of searching for a man who they say tagged hundreds of posters in the subway system with the name "Moustache," the NYPD arrested 26-year-old Joseph Waldo last week. Waldo, a Manhattan resident, has left his mark in black permanent marker on a countless number of subway ads, say police, and the NYPD has been searching for him since March, when officials first noticed the distinctive tagging. ## West Side robber sought

WEST SIDE. The NYPD is looking for a man who they say is behind as many as 10 robberies along the West Side of Manhattan.

The suspect, seen wearing a black Scarface hooded sweatshirt, approaches victims and then shows them the handle of a gun, said police. He then demands either money or their cell phones and flees on foot. Most recently, on June 23, he robbed a 27-year-old woman of her cell phone on West 22nd Street. METRO/CB

Second Ave. life quality concerns

UPPER EAST SIDE. Congresswoman Carolyn Maloney is urging the MTA to step up its efforts to improve quality of life for residents who live around Second Avenue subway construction. After complaints of noxious odors and dust plumes near East 69th Street and Second Avenue, Maloney is urging the MTA to test the air quality at the site. METRO/CB

▶ A bill passed by the state legislature would allow livery cars, like this one in Greenpoint, to pick up street hails outside Manhattan.

More freedom ahead for livery drivers?

Senate passes landmark bill that would change the way New Yorkers move about town ◐ But taxi medallion owners seeing red over proposal

A bill that may soon make it much easier to find a ride home in the outer boroughs is the source of a bitter feud between taxi and livery car drivers.

The state legislature voted Friday to allow livery car drivers to pick up street hails in the outer boroughs — Brooklyn, Queens, the Bronx and Staten Island — as well as northern Manhattan.

Livery car drivers often pick up customers off the street, but the practice is currently illegal and unsafe, say bill proponents. Livery car drivers caught picking up street hails face steep fines.

Under the plan, the Taxi and Limousine Commission would issue 30,000 permits for $1,500 each. The new livery cars would have a meter, a credit card machine and GPS, just like yellow cabs. The new livery cars would also be painted a distinct color.

The bill, which is not yet signed by Gov. Andrew Cuomo, will go into effect next year should it become law.

But yellow cab drivers and medallion owners say the bill will "devastate" their industry, and are working overtime to discourage Cuomo from signing it into law.

"Yellow cabs will still have the exclusive right to the places where they do 97.5 percent of their business — central Manhattan and the airports."
MAYOR MICHAEL BLOOMBERG

Allowing livery cars to pick up street hails will devalue a pricey yellow cab medallion, they argue.

"Nobody will pay $680,000 for a medallion to pick up a fare on 96th and Broadway when you're selling the same street hail rights for $1,500 apiece to pick up someone on 97th and Broadway," said David Pollack, part of a coalition of taxi drivers and owners.

Probe demanded after bar raid

A Chelsea gay bar was the subject of a police inspection Friday night, as patrons were celebrating only hours after the New York Legislature passed a historic gay marriage bill. The Eagle, a leather bar on West 28th Street, was included in a routine inspection, said police, due to the complaints it had received about noise and overcrowding. Manhattan Borough President Scott Stringer called the inspection "ill-timed."

"I am going to ask the police commissioner to conduct a formal investigation," Stringer told the New York Times. METRO/CB

Diaz: Gay marriage is sign of doomsday

Power to the Tea Party?

Diaz warned that New York voters who agree with him may look elsewhere in upcoming elections due to their disappointment with state Republicans. Nearly 60 percent of voters support gay marriage, according to the latest Quinnipiac poll. "Republicans are giving power to Sarah Palin and the Tea Party. They are making the Tea Party stronger in New York state," he grumbled.

State senator says gay marriage is a sin foretold in the Bible Only Democrat to vote against legislation

State Sen. Ruben Diaz, D-Bronx, is proud of the fact that he's the only Democrat who voted against historic gay marriage legislation when it passed in New York late Friday night.

Diaz is one of 29 state senators who opposed the gay marriage bill that passed by a slim 33-vote majority.

"I always knew it would pass in New York, and if they allow it here the whole nation goes. But I am Christian first and then a Democrat," he said. "I always vote my conscience."

Diaz, a Pentecostal minister, warned that now that gay marriage is legal, it is a sign of the coming apocalypse.

"To each his own. They won; they got what they want, let them enjoy. It's not hate, it's disagreement."
DIAZ

"They say in the Bible all these things will come to pass. They say there will be a time when good is bad and bad is good," he continued. "I say the end is coming and they laugh at me, but the Bible calls on the faithful not to give up."

Diaz placed the blame squarely on Republicans in the state Senate for making New York the sixth — and largest — state in the nation to legalize gay marriage.

"All Democrats do is abortion and gay marriage, but the Republican party has always been the party that protects traditional values and family values," he said. "I'm disappointed with them and [Senate Majority Leader] Dean Skelos. They lost their vision and became a tool of the Democratic party."

Pride parade in photos

Throngs of revelers congregated on Christopher Street for the Gay Pride parade. This year's theme was "Proud and Powerful." Blushing brides, grooms and delighted New Yorkers showed their support for the queer community. The annual celebration began in 1970 to commemorate the anniversary of the Stonewall riots, the event most consider as the start of the American gay rights movement.

A burst of PRIDE

Only two days after historic same-sex marriage vote, 2 million attend Gay Pride parade in New York City

PHOTOS: EMILY ANNE EPSTEIN/METRO

New York City's streets were paved with pride yesterday as millions celebrated the legalization of gay marriage. The 42nd annual Gay Pride March came just two days after an 11th-hour vote by the state Senate to pass a same-sex marriage bill, infusing the parade with more meaning than ever before.

"It's a beautiful day to support equal rights," said Diana Mattos, 39, of Queens.

Mayor Michael Bloomberg, City Council Speaker Christine Quinn and Gov. Andrew Cuomo marched alongside one another, waving rainbow flags. More than 2 million people watched this year's parade, which usually attracts 1.5 million, parade organizer Britton Hogge told Bloomberg News.

"I'm proud of Bloomberg and Cuomo," said East Village resident Rich Smith, 40. "This year they really went to bat for us. They were relentless."

Parade-goers held signs that read "Thank you, Governor Cuomo" and "Promises Kept."

"I'm proud to be gay in New York City right now," said Nicholas Lamboy, 23, a barista from Coney Island. "Fourty-four states to go!"

New York is the sixth state to legalize gay marriage.

Astoria resident and drag performer "Sassy," 28, has been marching in the parade for six years in a wedding dress, but this Sunday was the first time she got to do so as a bride-to-be.

She's slated to marry her boyfriend of one year, John, on July 24, 30 days after Cuomo signed the bill into law on Friday.

"After the news came in he drove up from D.C. in the middle of the night and surprised me," she said. "He woke me up and asked, 'Will you marry me?'"

Train crash death toll rising

At least six killed in weekend incident after tractor-trailer runs into locomotive ◗ Truck driver, train conductor among dead ◗ Toll likely to rise, but train cars 'dangerously unstable'

At least six people were killed when a tractor-trailer rig barreled through railroad gates and into an Amtrak train early Friday in Nevada, and authorities said yesterday they expect that number to rise as victims are pulled from the horrific wreckage.

A National Transportation Safety Board spokesman said the driver of the truck slammed on his brakes just 320 feet before the rail crossing, apparently failing to see signs, flashing lights and closed signal arms.

"The data so far indicates that all signals and gates were operating properly [and] there was excellent visibility of the track," said NTSB member Earl Weener.

The truck, leading a convoy of three tractor-trailer rigs, was traveling at such a high rate of speed that it embedded itself in the side of the train, Weener said.

Among those killed in the collision at a crossing of U.S. Route 95 near the town of Lovelock, about 70 miles east of Reno, were the truck driver and train conductor, the Nevada Highway Patrol has said.

The Associated Press reported that the truck company involved in the deadly crash has been cited repeatedly by state authorities for crashes, unsafe driving and operating a truck with tires so bald the vehicle had to be taken off the road.

Authorities expect to pull more bodies from the twisted wreckage of the train, but a search was proceeding slowly because the burned-out train cars were dangerous. "We know that people have seen bodies, but we can't get to them in the wreckage," a Nevada Highway Patrol spokesman said. REUTERS

Injured

- Renown Regional Medical Center in Reno received nine people from the accident, including one who remained in critical condition Saturday. A second patient was listed in serious condition and a third in fair condition. Six others had been discharged.
- Another 60 people were taken to Banner Churchill Community Hospital in Fallon.

Gay Pride around globe

1: Gays, lesbians and supporters took part in the 15th annual Gay Pride Parade in Sao Paulo, Brazil. It's considered the biggest in the world, and more than 4 million people were expected this year.

'Lean gene' maybe not so great?

LONDON. Being slim may not always lead to a lower risk of heart disease and diabetes, scientists said yesterday after they identified a gene linked both to having a lean body and to a higher risk of metabolic diseases.

Researchers from Britain's Medical Research Council Epidemiology Unit said that while a so-called "lean gene" was linked to having less body fat, it was also linked to an increased risk of heart disease and type 2 diabetes — illnesses normally associated with being overweight. REUTERS

Vote offered to remove Gaddafi

TRIPOLI. The Libyan government yesterday renewed its offer to hold a vote on whether Muammar Gaddafi should stay in power, a proposal unlikely to interest his opponents but which could widen differences inside NATO.

Pressure is growing from some quarters within the alliance to find a political solution, three months into a military campaign which is costing NATO members billions of dollars, has killed civilians and has so far failed to topple Gaddafi. REUTERS

AIDS drugs tied to early aging

LONDON. A class of generic AIDS drugs often used to treat HIV in Africa and other poor regions can cause premature aging and lead to age-related illnesses such as heart disease and dementia, scientists said yesterday.

In a study in the journal Nature Genetics, British researchers found that the drugs, known as nucleoside analog reverse-transcriptase inhibitors, or NRTIs, damage DNA in the patient's mitochondria — the "batteries" that power cells.

The scientists said it was unlikely that newer cocktails of AIDS drugs would inflict similar levels of damage, since they are thought to be less toxic to mitochondria. REUTERS

Bachmann tests power of Tea Party

Conservative firebrand Michele Bachmann will test the limits of how far a favorite of the Tea Party movement can go when she formally launches her campaign for the 2012 Republican presidential nomination today.

The Minnesota congresswoman, who vows to cut spending, shrink the government and repeal President Barack Obama's 2010 health care overhaul law, may well pull the Republican campaign toward the right in her bid for an upset victory.

After months of flirting with a run, Bachmann, 55, enters the Republican campaign with an event in her hometown of Waterloo, Iowa. The Midwestern state holds the first contest on the road to her party's nomination for the right to challenge Obama in 2012.

Her rise is proof that the Tea Party remains a potent force after helping Republicans win control of the House of Representatives in November. REUTERS

Ousting Palin?

Her presence in the race could also dampen the chances that Sarah Palin will make a late entry into the campaign, since their messages resonate with the same conservative voters.

Mitt leads Michele, barely, in Iowa poll

Republican front-runner Mitt Romney and U.S. Rep. Michele Bachmann led a closely watched presidential poll of Iowa Republicans, the state that holds the first contest in the nomination battle.

The Iowa caucuses, often held on a frigid winter night that can limit turnout to those most committed, often serves to winnow the field of candidates.

Whoever captures the nomination in the unsettled Republican field is expected to challenge Democratic President Barack Obama in the November 2012 general election.

Romney led the poll of likely caucus-goers with 23 percent, followed by 22 percent support for Bachmann. REUTERS

Eliminate min. wage?

Rep. Michele Bachmann said she would stoke U.S. economic growth by cutting taxes on corporate income and capital gains and considering elimination of the minimum wage.

Corporate tax rates should be significantly reduced from a maximum 35 percent and capital gains taxes should be eliminated, Bachmann said in an interview on CBS's "Face the Nation" yesterday. Congress should also re-evaluate the federal minimum wage of $7.25 per hour, she said. REUTERS

Say "No" to the Mask

Are you one of the millions of people who snore and refuse to wear the mask? Or do you currently wear a mask but need an alternative?

There is a solution.

Taking a minimally invasive, in-office approach allows you to get quick, safe and affordable treatment, avoid painful surgery and cumbersome masks.

WHY WAIT?

Going untreated is not an option. Ignoring your sleep apnea can lead to serious health issues.

Sleep is not a luxury... It's a necessity.

You don't have to live with the mask.

We can tailor a plan to treat your sleep apnea, and give you the quality sleep you need.

New bond for Bond

It's time to play pop psychologist! On Saturday it was announced British actors Rachel Weisz, 41, and Daniel Craig, 43, married in New York City during a very private ceremony that only included Craig's teenage daughter Ella and Weisz's 5-year-old son. Rumor has it that the couple began "quietly dating" last year, shortly after Weisz announced the end of her nine-year relationship with "Black Swan" director Darren Aronofsky, with whom she had her son. (Random question: How do you date loudly?) Anyway, according to The Washington Post, this marriage comes shortly after "James Bond" star Craig ended a long-term engagement to producer Satsuki Mitchell.

Not to drag these accomplished actors down, but doesn't this seem kind of sudden? Like, their last long-term thing didn't work out and all of a sudden they're super eager to just jump into something serious immediately? Apparently they've been friends for years and had just recently starred as a couple in a film that has yet to come out — "Dream House." But if these were our old high school friends, we'd be tut-tutting this arrangement. Why not buy a summer home together and see where that goes? But then again, they may make too pretty a pair to pass up.

Talking points

Wilson and Duell split

Owen Wilson has reportedly split up with the mother of his child, Jade Duell, according to the National Enquirer. The pair have a son, Robert, who is 5 months old. "Owen wanted the freedom to do what he wanted with his friends, both male and female, while remaining a family unit with Jade and the baby," a source says. "But Jade wasn't willing to go along with that, so Owen decided to end things with her instead of cheating behind her back."

Wilson

Aniston gets inked for dog

Jennifer Aniston has reportedly gotten her first tattoo, according to People magazine. The former "Friends" star inked the name Norman in elegant script on the inside of her right foot as a tribute to her beloved 15-year-old dog, which passed away earlier this year. Aniston has another dog, a German shepherd mix named Dolly.

Clooney

Clooney called it quits

George Clooney was reportedly the one who put a stop to his relationship with Elisabetta Canalis, according to Canalis' pal, Che editor Alfonso Signorini. "From what I know it was him who dumped her and she stormed out of the villa. I've tried to get her on the telephone but it's switched off," Signorini said in an interview on Italian TV show "Rai Uno" last week. "It has come as a real surprise to me. They were getting on really well."

Spader

Spader back in 'The Office'

James Spader is reportedly set to join "The Office" after earning rave reviews for his appearance in the show's seventh season finale as one the many applicants vying for Steve Carell's character's old job, according to Entertainment Weekly. "In the finale, he kicked a—," a source close to the show says. "He was so funny and had this weird energy. We didn't want to pass it up."

Why you should embrace sexting

Chad Kultgen suggests you throw out your inhibitions and just take a picture of your no-no parts already

Forget public figures — why would any sane person send photos of their private parts? There is only one man who could help us understand the sexting psyche: Chad Kultgen, the Tucker Max-esque author of the feminist-enraging cult works "The Average American Male," "The Lie," and now, "Men, Women & Children," a novel that explores our new Internet landscape and its effect on interpersonal relationships. Here, he argues for the embrace of sexting behavior.

You're still hip: The 13-year-old kid who lives in your building has sent images of his genitalia to every girl he knows and he's the most popular kid in his class. If you're not sexting, it might as well be 1986 and you refuse to listen to rap because you "can't understand what they're saying when they talk so fast."

You will be drunk: You have a fun night out on the town but end up going home alone. You look through your contact list for a booty call and get no response except from someone who's out of town. You're going to send them a picture of your genitals. It can't be helped.

Avoid having the sex conversation with your kids: Just give them a cell phone and within a few weeks they will have figured it all out on their own — probably with images of their friends' genitals to help.

It's the new scrapbooking: Why remember eras in your life with photos of peoples' faces when you could have photos of their genitals? No one cares about the graduation or the wedding — they care about the person they had sex with at the graduation or wedding. METRO

The president will do it

We all know congressmen enjoy sexting, but eventually our beloved commander in chief is going to send a lewd text to his wife (or more likely not to his wife) and then all bets are off. Once the leader of the free world has his penis on the Internet, you're going to feel compelled to do your duty as an American and follow suit.

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Why You Should Sell Now!

The Economy & Market Value

The recent downturn of our economy during the last three years has caused gold and other precious metal prices to soar to the highest levels of all time. This is the reason this is best time to sell before prices drop.

Get Cash Immediately

Our professional staff will provide you with a speedy evaluation and make all payments in cash.

No Charge

We do not charge for our consultations. Find out how much cash your unwanted items will put in your pocket. Many customers have been surprised and delighted by the amount of money they received.

Safe, Secure & Friendly

Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Licensed, Bonded & Insured

We are licensed, bonded and insured in all cities and towns in which we conduct business.

Help the Environment

Using recycled precious metals for jewelry is an important way for jewelers to source precious metals more responsibly. Precious metals that have already been used in some way, including "vintage," "renewed," or "reclaimed" metals from jewelry and electronics, are not directly implicated in the destructive impacts of mining. They do not share responsibility for the impacts of mining in the same way that newly mined gold does.

Box office

'Cars 2' drives home a box office win

"Cars 2," a Pixar sequel judged by critics to be the worst movie produced by the Disney-owned animation studio, sped to the front of the pack at the weekend box office in North America.

According to studio estimates issued yesterday, the cartoon earned about $68 million during its first three days of release across the United States and Canada.

The first "Cars" opened to $60 million in 2006, or $72 million if adjusted for higher ticket prices. "Cars 2" also had the benefit of premium pricing for 3-D engagements.

The only other new release in the top 10, the Cameron Diaz comedy "Bad Teacher," opened at No. 2 with a better than expected $31 million. Last weekend's champion, the superhero film "Green Lantern," slid to No. 3 with $18.4 million.

Critics lambasted "Cars 2." By contrast, Pixar's "Toy Story 3," which opened to $110 million a year ago, was among the best reviewed films of 2010.

The latest sequel, viewed more as a merchandising opportunity for Pixar's Walt Disney Co. parent than another creative milestone, received approval of 34 percent of critics surveyed by Rotten Tomatoes. The previous low for a Pixar film was 74 percent for the first "Cars." REUTERS

The id of Izzard

The multitalented actor and recent star of 'Cars 2' talks about his own need for speed and fancy cars

GETTY IMAGES

Eddie Izzard has quite the crowded business card these days: actor, stand-up comedian, political activist, marathon-runner, avid Twitterer. And with "Cars 2," he joins the ranks of Pixar voice actors as Miles Axelrod, a Range Rover-ish entrepreneur who's designed a new, environmentally friendly fuel, Allinol. The incredibly busy Mr. Izzard sat down with Metro just hours after arriving in L.A. from Paris, where he's doing a series of stand-up shows. In French.

"The positive attitude I like about business is like the Pixar model. You don't have to be a rape-and-pillage business." IZZARD

So, you've never really considered yourself a big car person?
I do like cars, but I'm not a car nut. I always thought, "Well I'm doing OK, I've got a bit of money, let's get a stupid car, a crazy car." And I started hiring a few, and nothing really grabbed me. I kept coming back to the Beetle or a Mini because they're kind of cool, and they didn't separate me. I wasn't saying, "Hey, look how good I'm doing." But having said that, I'd go for any type Jag, or an Aston Martin DB5 or 6 — there's a five and a six, and I keep looking at them going, "What's the difference?"

I'm playing Sir Miles Axelrod, the … am I a millionaire or a billionaire? I can't remember. All the positive side of Miles Axelrod has something Richard Branson-esque — or me-esque, because I was at some point studying accounting and financial management. And I am someone that, I suppose

Q&A

How have you found balancing all the different work you do?
It's tricky. I think if you just had a lot of films going — film after film after film — then you would just have to juggle those together. Instead I have a film, and then do France in French, and then maybe run some marathons, and then do something political in an election campaign. So it's mixing things together that I want to do.

I have been taking my comedy around the world, and I've tried to do that in a very positive way.

Yes, we've raised some money on the marathons. The positive attitude I like about business is like the Pixar model. You don't have to be a rape-and-pillage business. You know, you can still make a profit. You don't have to be an ogre. Just you have to work a bit harder at it.

The everything man

Jason Segel's got a dozen projects in the works, but we talked about the coolest ones yet: 'Bad Teacher' and 'The Muppets' How the 'HIMYM' star does it all

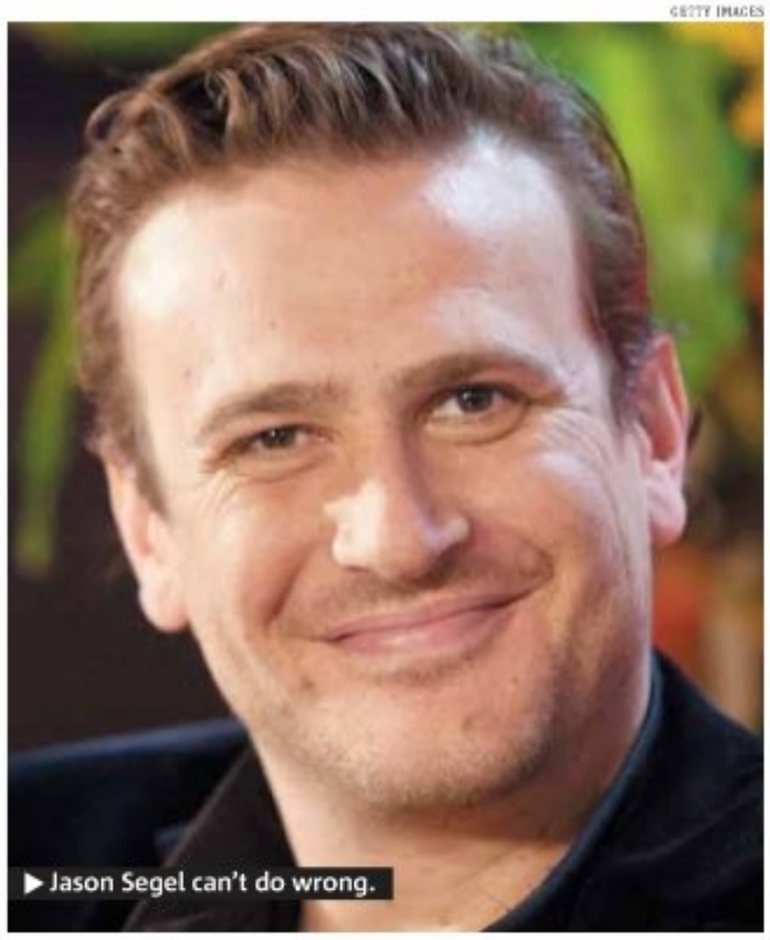
GETTY IMAGES



▶ Jason Segel can't do wrong.

Jason Segel isn't one for summer vacation. While on break from "How I Met Your Mother," the actor, writer and musician is beyond busy promoting his latest film, "Bad Teacher," opposite Cameron Diaz and Justin Timberlake, and putting the finishing touches on his passion project, "The Muppets."

"Bad Teacher" is a great example of raunchy comedy done well. What do you think made it work?
I think one of the things that makes the movie work is that Cameron is so intrinsically likable and is known for having such a bright personality that there's a lot of fun to be had in seeing her kind of off the rails with that character, so I think that's part of what makes that work. At no point do you actually think she's a bad person.

Was there a lot of improvisation for your scenes with her?
There was quite a bit of adlibbing. I think part of our process in general is that a lot of the hard work is done in casting, and once you've hired people that you're confident know their parts even better than you do as the writer or director, and so you trust in them to do their thing.

Getting it done

Between TV, film and promotional duties, how hectic is your schedule these days?

I was in Michigan a couple of hours ago filming, and then flew into New York. I'm here for about three hours, and then back home. So pretty busy. Right now I'm filming a movie called "The Five-Year Engagement" that I wrote with my writing partner, Nick Stoller, which is another romantic comedy under the Judd umbrella. And we've got "Muppets" coming out.

With the first official trailer for "The Muppets" out now, you must be pretty stoked.
I couldn't more excited. That's been a real labor of love. Nick Stoller and I started writing it almost five years ago now. I've seen cuts of it, and I think we're just inches away from some real magic.

You've been doing some great parody trailers for it.
I thought the very first parody trailer, where it seemed like a mediocre romantic comedy, was really funny, too. I was watching people kind of sigh in relief that Amy Adams and I hadn't made a terrible movie.

Can you tell us anything about the Muppet you created?
Yeah, his name is Walter. He's an adorable little guy who is sort of the eyes and ears of the audience. It was really an honor to have my own Muppet.

Career advice from Russell Simmons

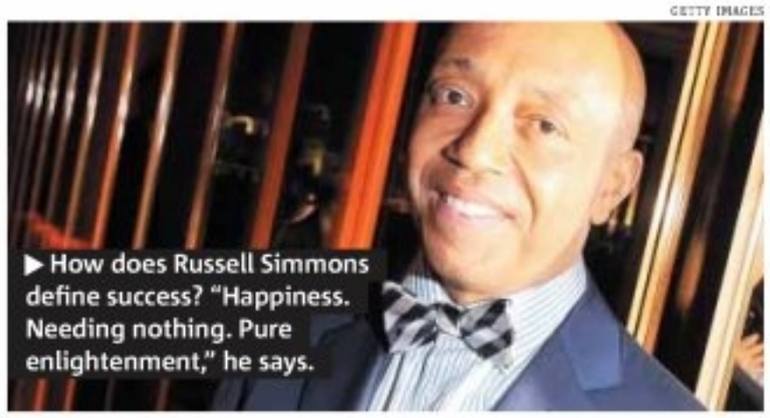
GETTY IMAGES



▶ How does Russell Simmons define success? "Happiness. Needing nothing. Pure enlightenment," he says.

From his music label (Def Jam), to his fashion designs (Phat Farm), to his virtual banking services (the Rush Card), it seems that everything Russell Simmons touches turns to gold. At the 2011 American Business Awards, where Simmons was awarded the first-ever Difference Maker honor for his entrepreneurial and philanthropic contributions, we asked the mega mogul to share some career advice. His No. 1 tip? "Love what you do," he says, before offering this guidance:

READ THE COMPLETE PROFILE ONLINE AT WWW.METRO.US/CAREER

▶ Have an imagination: "It's important for American business to focus on creativity as opposed to quarterly results," the mogul says.

▶ Be patient: "Everything I did took longer than it should have," he says. "I never did anything anybody liked."

▶ Fill a void: "My financial service company is changing the world. It's like the banks are starting to look to me like Tower Records and I'm starting to feel like iTunes. I see a whole new way of managing money, and we started nine years ago and no one believed. There was a big hole in the market: people getting their checks, going to check-cashing places, getting robbed. Then they couldn't rent anything. And they were locked out of the American dream. Now virtual bank gives them the chance to shift that."

▶ Don't quit: "If you pick a path, stay on it," he says. "You don't fail until you quit. A lot of times you'll be a bit shaken or you'll learn a lesson — incorporate that lesson into continued resilience. Faith is a critical part of the process."

▶ Find spirituality: "That practice of being more connected comes through all different religious practices. The more you acknowledge it, the easier it is," he says.

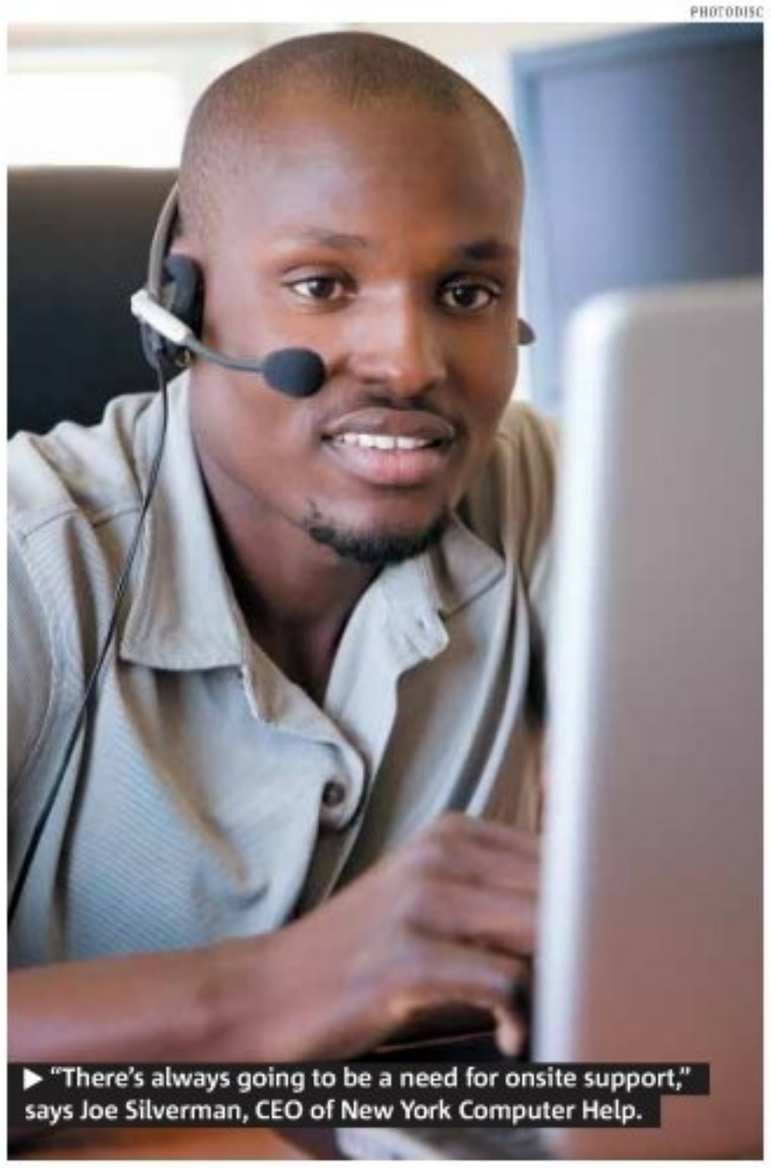
PHOTODISC



▶ "There's always going to be a need for onsite support," says Joe Silverman, CEO of New York Computer Help.

The ever-changing demand of IT needs

- As virtual operating systems change, so do the needs of companies
- If you can fix the 'blue screen of death,' you'll always be valuable

Last year, Network World magazine named Virtual Systems Manager the second "best IT job right now."

But "right now" can become ancient history real fast in the IT profession.

A virtual operating system is a platform upon which businesses can link their computers and operate out of one, virtualized, operating system. But as the cloud becomes more trusted, and these virtual systems become more centralized and outsourced, there may be less demand for virtual systems managers.

"Businesses with five to 10 people are using the cloud servers now," says Joe Silverman, CEO of New York Computer Help, a company that provides IT to other companies and designs virtual systems for them. "I find that bigger companies that have a server feel like, 'hey, we have this big investment, let's make it work for us.' But even with big companies, we've seen a shift. They're migrating over to the cloud."

"Virtualization is the lazy man's IT. You don't need to hire talent for that. ... But 'blue screen of death' and hard drive failure, that's where real IT talent comes through."
JOE SILVERMAN

For students, it may be time to reconsider specializing in virtual systems. But that doesn't mean they should forget about it completely.

"You need to have a grasp of the concepts," says Margaret McCoey, professor of computer science at La Salle University. "And that won't necessarily be handed to you, because it's still not part of the core of computer science."

And companies are finding they still need a real person to maintain their real computers.

"Virtualization is the lazy man's IT. You don't need to hire talent for that. It's a chance to double up your return on your existing IT," says Silverman. "But 'blue screen of death' and hard drive failure, that's where real IT talent comes through. There's always going to be a need for onsite support."

How to work when you work from home

When the office is right next to your TV, it can be hard to stay in line ◆ How to earn the paycheck you want

Folks say it's lonely at the top, but it's even lonelier when you work for your own one-person company.

Keeping a sense of perspective as you run a business out of a spare bedroom can be a job unto itself, small-business advisors say. With no boss keeping tabs on the company math, it's all too easy to allow yourself the leisurely lunch breaks and hammock days that can sink your entrepreneurship.

"It's eye opening to people when they learn how much an hour costs," says John Jantsch, author of "Duct Tape Marketing." "If you want to make $100,000 a year working 40-hour weeks, the entire time you have to be doing work worth $50 an hour."

▶ Pay attention to your to-do list.

COMSTOCK

Which is why, he advises, you have to obey your to-do list religiously. Tack a project list to your wall to make sure you're chasing the big goals, he adds.

"You need to constantly focus on the payoff work," Jantsch warns. "Reading a magazine or cleaning the office probably isn't worth $100 an hour."

Assemble a board

Every business, no matter how small, needs a set of advisors, says Jim Blasingame, author of "Small Business is Like a Bunch of Bananas."

- For a one-businessperson show, try to have lunch once a month with a single consultant paid for keeping an eye on the company's bottom line, such as your attorney or accountant.
- "It doesn't need to be a friend," he stresses. "It needs to be someone you're paying for absolute brutal, brutal bloodletting, gut-wrenching, eviscerating candor."

LIM COLLEGE
WHERE BUSINESS MEETS FASHION

In today's retail world, great importance is placed on compelling merchandise presentations. The Visual Merchandising Certificate program at LIM College is a hands-on, practical course of study that introduces students to contemporary display techniques and the role of overall store design within the retail setting.

PUT YOUR PASSION ON DISPLAY: LIM COLLEGE'S PROFESSIONAL CERTIFICATE IN VISUAL MERCHANDISING

Kristina Visceglia is a recent graduate of LIM's Visual Merchandising Certificate program. While in the program, Kristina entered and won a student competition, sponsored by Solstice Sunglass Boutique. Her winning window display will soon appear in 160 Solstice retail locations all across the country.

"We were asked to design a summer campaign to promote the Summer Solstice and featuring Carrera brand sunglasses, sold at Solstice Sunglass Boutique," says Kristina. "My first thought was of the beach and my interest in collecting sea glass. That led to the idea of a message in a bottle, which ultimately led to the idea of a campaign featuring sunglasses in bottles."

"I had worked in retail for the past six years, so I already knew I loved visual merchandising. What LIM provided was the design knowledge and hands-on experience I needed. I also appreciated that the program was so personalized, allowing me to choose subjects for my projects based on my own fashion interests, styles, and strengths."

"In the end, the Visual Merchandising Certificate program has helped me to advance in my career. With all that I've learned, plus the networking and relationships that the college has with major brands, I'm succeeding in a field that I absolutely love!"

What about you? Are you ready for a more creative, more stimulating career? Let LIM College's Visual Merchandising Certificate program be your springboard to a new and exciting career – here, in New York City, the fashion capital of the world; here, at LIM College, the nation's only college dedicated exclusively to the business of fashion.

Textbook tyranny

BRAND X PICTURES

▶ One way to save money on textbooks is to rent them.

Education Option.com

JUDY WEIGHTMAN
JUDY.WEIGHTMAN@METRO.US

Economist James V. Koch of Old Dominion University in Virginia figured out that buying a textbook is not like a normal purchase, because the person selecting the item and the one paying for it are not the same person. With textbooks, the professor chooses the book, but the student has to shell out the money to acquire it.

This means that publishers can get away with setting high prices, since the buyer is not in a position to say "too expensive" and walk away from the deal.

Koch analyzed the textbook market for a congressional committee five years ago, but talked to us about how the market has — and hasn't — changed.

"There's more awareness of the problem," Koch said, "and more efforts to provide alternatives" such as textbook rentals.

The other big change is the increasing role of the Internet. "There's a significant element of competition now," Koch said. "It's much easier for students to compare prices and find the best deals."

Not all changes are for the better. Publishers have responded to reform efforts by putting out new editions of textbooks even more often. A few years ago the average was a new edition every three and a half years; it's now every three years. Once a new edition comes out, it can be impossible to sell back your book at the end of the semester, or to find a used copy yourself.

Study guide

Koch's money saving tips:

- Comparison shop. Look around for the best price possible, and consider renting instead of buying.
- Buy used!
- Ask the professor if you can use an older edition of the text, which will be much cheaper.
- Advocate for change. Work with your student government to educate professors and other students about the issues.

In defense of Lindsay Lohan

In the case of Lindsay Lohan, I doubt we know her history. There are a lot of people with demons who aren't constantly examined in the public eye. Instead of holding a witch hunt, we should help Lindsay get better. It shouldn't matter how many times she falls, but how many times we help her up.

MAURICIO ESTARELLAS, NEW YORK

Rest in peace, Peter Falk

Let's take a break from gay rights, the debt ceiling, war, and liberal/conservative bickering. It sure was a bummer to hear of the passing of "Columbo," i.e. Peter Falk. Rest in peace.

JOHN E. BEVAN, VIA E-MAIL

Adding insult to injury

A letter writer recently called another writer a "chauvinist pig" for criticizing a singer's weight. I suggest we stop insulting other species. When's the last time you referred to yourself as having pigged out, chickened or weaseled out of something, or called someone a dog, a snake, a dirty rat or a fat cow. None of the connotations are positive. We use these phrases without thinking but they penetrate our thoughts nonetheless. We make it easier to ignore the needs of other species.

ROSA MICHNYA, VIA E-MAIL

When social outreach fails

RE: 'DRUG WAR' NOT ROCKET SCIENCE: The legalization of drugs may work quite well for pot but to keep people on crack, meth or heroine in "supportive community programs" isn't going to work. We pump billions of dollars into our schools, but many kids don't want to learn; many end up in jail. If it's a poverty-driven problem, why do the poor waste money on drugs and not food?

JOHN ARSLANIAN, VIA E-MAIL

Something up his sleeve

President Obama was a step ahead of his supporters and is being vilified for it. Activists are condemning him for not taking a position on gay marriage when the New York Senate was taking its vote. Does anyone believe that the Republicans would have allowed a vote if Obama had come out in favor? Let's give Obama credit for knowing to keeping his mouth shut when one word may have killed the gay marriage bill.

Horoscope

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Your wit and humor can be quite good at times, but making another the butt of your joke may not be a laughing matter to your victim.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Be on guard when negotiating a complicated matter. There is a strong chance that someone is not leveling with you and failing to put all his or her cards on the table.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Just because your spirits are high doesn't mean someone won't come along and try to put a damper on them. Make light of anything negative this person has to say.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Sometimes there can be a thin line between assertiveness and aggressiveness. Be careful that you know the difference.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. It's important to logically, not emotionally, evaluate a business matter if you hope to accurately assess both its values and frailties. Don't act on a whim or a prayer.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Regardless of how much you have to tell your friends, don't monopolize the conversation. Let your pals share the stage.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Starting the week off full of big ideas is great, but having what it takes to follow through on anyone of them is another story. Don't start anything that you know you won't finish.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Trying to pretend you're knowledgeable about something, when in fact you know bubkes, will turn out to be an embarrassment when you have to prove it.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. It's nice to have someone do you a favor, but remember you need to credit this person and show him or her an appreciation for the effort. Strive to acknowledge the individual in some way.

Logan gives Yankees options — for now

Next month, the Yankees could be seeking a left-handed reliever. Their need for another southpaw could be contingent on how effective Boone Logan is.

The 13 pitches coming from Logan's left arm in the top of the seventh yesterday were crucial in a 6-4 victory over the Rockies.

Logan earned the win when Eduardo Nunez slapped a one-out single to left field, but the 26-year-old did enough on his own to maintain a 4-4 tie.

Logan preserved the tie by mixing the slider with the fastball for a perfect inning. Entering his 28th appearance, he had allowed a .283 average to lefties, down from the .320 or so from earlier in the month.

The cause of Logan's newfound effectiveness is the dip in his arm angle.

"He seemed to get going in Cincinnati and he's done a very nice job for us," Yankees skipper Joe Girardi said. "He dropped his arm angle just a little bit, and it seemed to get him more depth and more break on his breaking ball. It makes it easier on him to get some swings and misses on his breaking ball, which has made it more consistent."

After getting all three outs on the slider, set up by fastballs and two outs vs. lefties, Logan's average against lefties dropped to .271 with an impressive showing against Carlos Gonzalez, switch-hitter Jose Herrera and Todd Helton.

"I used to be a lot lower with the White Sox and I came back up when I was with the Braves," Logan said. "It felt like I was fighting to keep my arm up. It feels more natural to stay on top of the ball with my lower arm slot — which does not make sense at all, but it does. It really does help me stay behind the ball and it's more fluid and more natural."

Winners, losers at the NHL entry draft

Some teams reloaded, retooled in St. Paul, Minn. Others made some weird choices Two teams that made out – and two that screwed it up

DRAFT WINNERS

Philadelphia Flyers

The Flyers unquestionably won draft weekend by freeing up $99.6 million in the Jeff Carter and Michael Richards trades.

Paul Holmgren was able to convince GMs Scott Howson and Dean Lombardi to part with youngsters Jakub Voracek and Wayne Simmonds, highly regarded prospect Brayden Schenn and first-, second- and third-round draft picks in total.

Ottawa Senators

The Senators might be the worst team in the NHL next season, but GM Bryan Murray is looking toward the future. He held the sixth and 21st overall picks entering Friday's first round, and added the 24th by trading two second round picks to Detroit. Murray used the three first-round selections to acquire center Mika Zibanejad and wings Stefan Noesen and Matt Puempel.

DRAFT LOSERS

Columbus Blue Jackets

"Baffling" is the word that comes to mind when thinking about GM Scott Howson's personnel moves. With or without Jeff Carter, Columbus isn't going to be a playoff team next season.

Calgary Flames

GM Jay Feaster did well in pawning Robyn Regeher and Ales Kotalik off on Buffalo. But re-signing Alex Tanguay to a five-year, $17.5 million deal doesn't make any sense.

DENIS GORMAN
sports@metro.us

For New York

The Rangers selected U.S. national team left wing J.T. Miller with the 15th pick. Miller played for the under-18 team in 2010-11, finishing with 11 goals, 37 points and 78 penalty minutes in 48 games. He'll have to decide between playing next season with the Plymouth Whalers of the Ontario Hockey League or the University of North Dakota.

Reyes leads Mets past Rangers

There was no stopping Jose Reyes yesterday. The Mets shortstop went 4-for-5 with three runs scored, an RBI and a stolen base in New York's 8-5 win over Texas in interleague play. Dillon Gee posted his first statistical quality start in three outings to earn the win; Derek Holland took the loss for the Rangers. The Mets (39-39) are at Detroit tomorrow after an off-day today. Tired of discolored toenails?

We want to see them.

If your toenails are yellow, thick, or brittle, you may have nail fungus. Not only is toenail fungus unsightly and embarrassing, but it can spread - to your other toes, from foot to hand, or even to family members.

Right now, doctors throughout New York and Long Island are taking part in a medical research study of an investigational medication for nail fungus that may help. This medication is clear and applied directly to the nail. If you join, you will receive the nail medication and all study-related care at no cost. You will also be paid for your time.
